INFORMATIONS ABOUT WATA RELATOR

FABIO FORLANI technician FISE and teacher in the 3rd level of the Reining unique in the Marche region, holds the position of President ACSI and AIPEC for the Marche Region, he is the Regional Coordinator for the Performance in the Marche Region.

He works in contact with horses for about 20 years. He runs the center "Valley Ranch", which teaches riding school westerns from the basics to the competitive preparation. For many years Fabio uses a working method based on understanding of the horse's language also called EQUUS language.

But what is actually the EQUUS language? It's a kind of language used much during the horse-rider interaction that does not use coercive methods but using the same language that originates from the mother-cub relationship since the birth of the foal.

He began to use this method when interacting with wild horses instead of using the usual traditional methods of taming convinced that there were other ways to communicate with horses. This method of training is based on behavioral principles of the horses in the herd and on their communication.

These principles are very valuable tools to motivate and increase the focus on the horse's behavior. The trainer helps the horse to accept a saddle, bridle and rider. Through body language rider communicate with him. The horse will respond with movements of his body.

"In front of a horse the human being can not pretend to be who is not because animals know to read the language to which the human being does not pay more attention: the non-verbal language or the body language ... That language never lies!"

---

OBJECTIVES

BUILD and STRENGTHEN the binomial HORSE - MAN
build trust
understand the non-verbal language
respecting his nature

This will help enormously to improve a capacity
that you already have:
the capacity to interact with people !!

In this regard the courses that are organized are also aimed at companies as those working in a team can take huge benefit from the acquisition of a way to communicate clearly and effectively

Through this practice man is able to increase their self-confidence and self-determination.

WHO CAN TAKE PART AT THAT COURSE

The course is addressed to all those who want to deepen their knowledge of this extraordinary animal

To those who approach to the horse for the first time

To those who want to have a horse and have already run understand important nuances as:

the reading of the behavior

land management

work in freedom
